The Nasdaq nudged up to notch its fifth straight record closing high on Friday following gains in Adobe and other technology-related shares. Adobe shares jumped 14.5% a day after the company raised its annual revenue forecast on more demand for its artificial intelligence-powered software. European stocks tumbled on Friday, with investors still spooked by the possibility of victory for the populist.

The US dollar was firm on Monday as the euro hovered near a more than one-month low amid continued concerns about the political outlook in Europe. Investors have been contemplating the risk of a budget crisis at the heart of the euro area, as far right and leftist parties gain momentum ahead of France's surprise parliamentary election, pressuring President Emmanuel Macron's centrist administration.
